

A bit about the team

Twenty-seven years ago a series of accidents in the Wicklow Mountains prompted the formation of a local, rapid-response mountain rescue team. Taking our name from the location of those accidents, the Glen of Imaal team has been providing cover for all of Wicklow and the surrounding areas ever since.

Since its' formation the team has developed and evolved to become specialised in all aspects of Search & Rescue in a mountainous environment: Search Management, Technical Rescue (Cliffs & Steep ground), Swift Water Rescue and Emergency Medical First Responders. The team can operate in the most extreme weather conditions, in the most remote locations and at any time of day or night.

The team has been involved in an estimated 1,260 call-outs over their 27 years in existence, averaging almost 1 call-out per week

All our members provide their time, services, and transport in service of the team at their own expense. As a voluntary group we also handle all the administrative and management tasks that go into running the team. A large part of the teams' funding comes from the generosity of you the public and this year your support is especially appreciated as we work towards our new base. On behalf of the team and all those we help in the hills we wish to express our sincere gratitude and say a big thank you!
